

HMS Power of the NETWORK

in the hands of the warfighter.

HMS stands for Handheld, Manpack, and Small Form Fit radios – they are literally the warfighter's connection to the network. And in every way program success is measured, from meeting real requirements to demonstrating real world capability, HMS hits the mark, and is the first to place the power of the information network into the hands of the warfighter.

The Real JTRS.

Come see the latest live networking demo of JTRS HMS radios at the AUSA Annual Meeting and Exposition, Exhibit #624.

GENERAL DYNAMICS
C4 Systems

HMS

Big Network. Small Radio.

HMS now includes the Rifleman Radio™ – to seamlessly connect every rifleman to the combat network, enabling voice and data communications for better decisions, safer environments and mission success at the very edge of the battlefield. Designed to bring secure intra-squad communications to the tactical edge, this handheld enables Team and Squad leaders to track and assess riflemen GPS locations and other vital situational information. And because it's HMS, it meets real JTRS requirements now and provides the capabilities needed today.

Ready. Real. Required.

For more information, visit www.gdc4s.com/jtrshms

GENERAL DYNAMICS
C4 Systems